CONSIDERED A CAREER IN SURVEYING?

Since the Egyptians built pyramids, surveyors have been working out where things go and determining where boundaries belong. We need surveyors to build roads and cities, define property, find and mine resources and measure changes in the earth.

Problem: Not enough surveyors to meet the demand. Australian surveyors are among the best in the world, with work opportunities from Antarctica to Dubai. Using the latest technology, you could be measuring polar ice caps, building skyscrapers, or developing new land for housing.

See: www.alifewithoutlimits.com.au

Study surveying at RMIT (Bachelor of Applied Science (Surveying)), or the Bachelor of Applied Science (Geomatics)), both 4-year degree courses, or the TAFE Diploma of Surveying or Advanced Diploma of Spatial Information Services.

YOU WHAT TO BE A PARAMEDIC?

This has become a popular option for many students and is available at the following universities:

Australian Catholic University (Ballarat campus) has the double degree of Bachelor of Nursing/Bachelor of Paramedicine. Last year's ATAR was 80.35.

La Trobe (Albury-Wodonga, Bendigo, Mildura and Shepparton) have the Bachelor of Health Sciences and Master of Paramedic Practice. The ATAR for the Bendigo campus was 77.85 (years 2, 3 and 4 of the course are conducted at Bendigo).

Monash (Peninsula campus) has the Bachelor of Emergency Health (Paramedic) and also a double degree combining paramedics with nursing. The ATAR for the double degree last year was 92.70.

Victoria University (St Albans campus) has the Bachelor of Health Science (Paramedic). Last year's ATAR was 80.65.

It would be wise to consider studying nursing, either as part of a double degree or as a single degree in addition to paramedics, as this gives a wider choice of career options.
